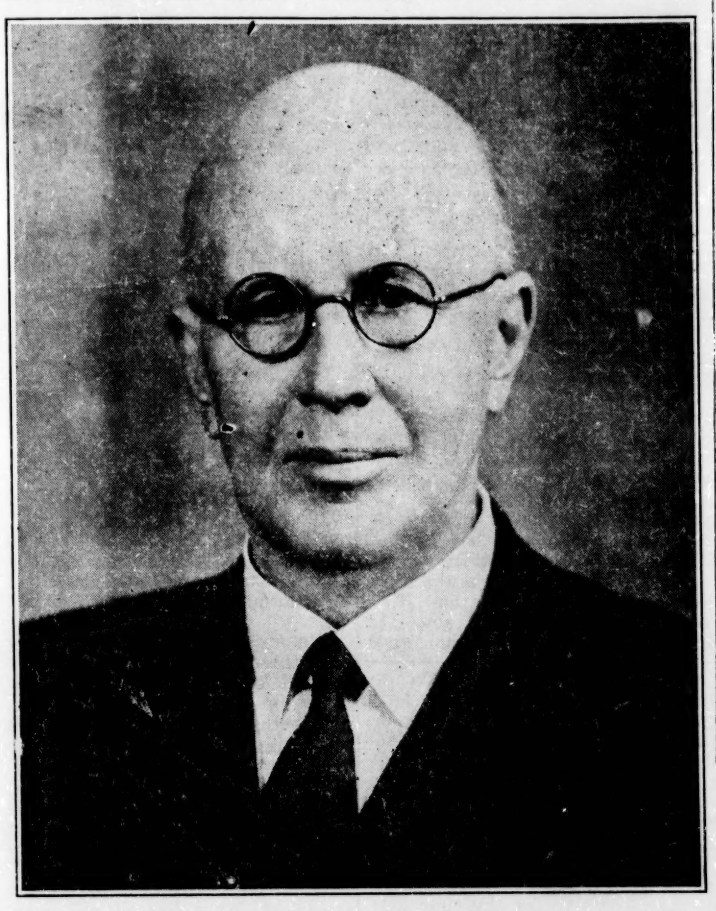
Rev. W. C. Brown Retires



REV. WILLIAM CARSON BROWN

Rev. W. C. Brown, who last month asked for a dissolution of the pastorial relationship between him and Little Joe's Church and who also announced his retirement from the active pastorate, will leave the middle of July with his family to establish future residence at Raeford. It was in Raeford that Mr. Brown served the longest of three pastorates that he has held during his 41 years of service.

On the last Sunday in June, the retiring pastor reviewed the work at Barium Springs from December, 1924, to July 1, 1937. It showed that 627 members had been received into Little Joe's Church, 139 on certificate and 488 by examination. There have been 379 baptisms, including 20 infants, most of the latter being outside of the local congregation. Marriages performed were 23, and funerals conducted in those 12 years numbered 68. Only 15 of the funerals were connected with Barium people, 53 being conducted in other churches.

Using the Minutes of the General Assembly from 1924-1925 through 1936-1937, the financial record of Little Joe's Church revealed that a total of $44,936 had been given during that 12-year period, for an average of almost $3,750 per year.

Of the total, $26,616 was local expense, $24,000 as pastor's salary and $2,616 as current expenses. The benevolent causes received the following: Foreign Missions, $4,721; Assembly's Home Missions, $3,043; Christian Education and Ministerial Relief, $1,004; Religious Education and Publication, $383; Assembly's Training School, $191; Bible Cause, $97; Synod's Home Missions, $831; Presbyterian Orphans' Home, $5,608; Educational Institutions, $563; Presbytery's Home Missions, $1,412, and miscellaneous benevolences, $467.

In the 41 years of Mr. Brown's ministry, 1694 members have been received into the churches he has served, which does not include between 250 and 300 others received in evangelistic meetings in which he participated; there have been 867 baptisms, 270 marriages and he has conducted 421 funerals. During his ministry five churches were built at places he served.

Little Joe's Church appointed a committee to draw up resolutions regarding Mr. Brown's leaving this congregation. The committee's statement is as follows:

"Rev. William Carson Brown, who for forty-one years has been upholding Christ to the several congregations he has served and in filling the pulpits of many other churches, has reached a decision to retire from the active pastorate. This also means the dissolution of the pastoral relationship existing between him and the congregation of Little Joe's Church at Barium Springs—the current congregation that he serves.

"This decision made by Mr. Brown, after careful consideration and deliberation on his part, constitutes a distinct and decided loss

110 CHURCHES GIVE BEST TOTALS IN 12 YEARS IN YEAR RECENTLY CLOSED

This Is Superior Record That Churches Made In The Previous Year

92 IN 1935-1936

Record of Giving of All Churches Since 1925-1926 Reviewed

During 1936-1937, 20.5% of the 538 churches in the Synod of North Carolina gave the best totals to the Orphanage in the past 12 years. In other words, 110 of the 538 churches sent Barium the best aggregates covering a period since 1925-1926 that was reviewed. This is a better record than that for 1935-1936, for in that fiscal period 92 churches gave the best contributions in an 11-year span.

Fifty of those 92 churches in 1935-1936 went ahead to exceed their totals of a year ago to be classified among the 110. Fifteen gave the best amounts since 1934-1935; four since 1933-1934; four since 1931-1932; seven since 1930-1931; two since 1929-1930; six since 1928-1929; seven since 1927-1928; six since 1926-1927, and five gave the best totals since 1925-1926. Apparently, few churches gave large sums in 1932-1933, for there was no church to exceed a "best" total of that year. Four churches filed their initial reports to Barium this year.

The 110 churches were apportioned to the Presbyteries as follows: Albemarle Presbytery, 14; Concord, 16; Fayetteville, 17; Granville, 5; Kings Mountain, 14; Mecklenburg, 14; Orange, 10; Wilmington, 12, and Winston-Salem, 8.

Following are those 110 churches and the previous year in which the best amount was contributed to the Orphanage:

The Social Service Department

This is the last article describing departments at Barium Springs. It might have been the first article because the activities of this particular department touch all phases of Orphanage life. In some ways it is the most important department, and yet it is one that very few Orphanages had until about 10 years ago. It was only after we commenced to use case work that we discovered how very important it was. People who run hospitals wonder how they ever got along without x-ray machines or departments for strictly diagnostic work. Well, that is the way Orphanages feel about case work.

In 1926 a case worker was added to the staff at Barium Springs, and then shortly afterward we wrote an article on this work. The pamphlet was called "CASE WORK, WHAT IS IT? AND WHY?" Much to our surprise, there were calls for this pamphlet from all over the United States, and believe it or not—Australia. In the preparation for this article we have re-read that ancient pamphlet, and it still sounds like pretty good reading. We will quote the first paragraph which attempts to define Case Work:

"Case Work as used by Orphanages is simply the careful investigation of the individual application, by someone who is thoroughly trained in the aims and purposes of the institution he or she serves, and all the other agencies for child relief operating in the territory for which the application arises."

Now, that is a splendid definition as far as it goes, but it covers only one-third of the duties of the case worker.

In order to get started with this article, however, we will concentrate on this definition for a while. Applications pour in to Barium Springs at the rate of about 150 per year, involving from 300 to 500 children. Most of these applications come with a recommendation from pastors, church officers, Auxiliary members, or other interested church members. Some applications come to us from Welfare Departments. Other applications come to us from parents themselves or other relatives. Without a Case Worker, we would just take the first 60 children, who would fill up a year's vacancies, and say "No" to the balance.

However, with a Case Worker, these applications are taken, they are investigated, relatives are interviewed, the purposes of the Orphanage explained, and other forms of relief are gone into, with a net result that over half of these applications are taken care of by the relatives themselves without going any further.

The next largest number are taken care of through some other form of relief, principally State Mothers' Aid. Quite a number of others are cleared up simply by an explanation of what the Orphanage is trying to do. Some people actually think they are doing the Orphanage a favor when they recommend children for entry here, and we have actually been urged to advertise the Orphanage in periodicals just as though it were a preparatory school.

The Case Worker, in investigating the cases, gets to know the children. She gets to know the relatives and the neighbors and the neighborhood from which each family of children comes. When a family is accepted, the Case Worker quite often is the only person at Barium whom they have ever seen before. Her's is the one familiar face that they see on their arrival here.

When relatives visit the Orphanage, quite often the Case Worker is the only person with whom they have any sort of an acquaintence. It is through her that other contacts are made.

The Case Worker's table in the dining room is always filled up with the new-comers. She introduces them to the other children. That leads us to a description of the second duty of the Case Worker; i. e., the contact-person with the relatives of the children here with the old home. All during a child's stay at Barium the Case Worker visits the old home at every opportunity possible, keeping in touch with parents or other relatives. She takes first-hand news, she arranges vacations and visits, and explains so many things to these relatives that might otherwise appear awkward and unfair.

She is the one—more than any other person—who keeps cordial relations alive between the old home and the temporary home.

There are numerous occasions when misunderstandings with children have been straightened out by a visit to a relative.

This duty leads up to the third and possibly the most important of the Case Worker's duties, keeping in contact with the children after they leave here.

One of the most frequent questions asked us is this: "What do you do with your children when they graduate?" The opinion seems to be in so many quarters that when a child is graduated or reaches the age for leaving the Orphanage he is handed his hat and a bundle of clothes and put out of the front door and the door locked behind him. Such is not the case. Contacts are made with the relatives or with the people with whom he will likely work. After the boy or girl leaves, many visits are made to see how they are getting along, to help them make changes in their work and in many ways play the part of "Big Brother" to the youngsters who are trying their wings for the first time.

From this brief description, you can see the three-fold duties of the Social Service Department: That of investigation and diagnosis of applications; that of liason officer between the Orphanage and the homes from which the children come; and that of a Big Brother lending a helping hand to those who are attempting to make their first contacts on their own. Quite a job!

In addition to this, there are many other duties. Let us enumerate: First, since the Case worker is familiar with the health situation in families before they come to Barium, it is perfectly natural that she should assist and keep a check on health measures for those children after they enter. Second, the keeping of records, case histories, health charts, school records, etc., that are necessary to give an accurate picture of the child's past, present and an indication of its future.

A boy or girl joins the Church. That fact eventually finds its way into the child's history. When a boy or girl earns a letter in any of the sports, that fact is noted on the social record of the child. Any illness or any operation are also placed in the records. A result of the annual clinics, in the weighing and measuring becomes a part of the record in this department.

One other thing that has been added in recent years is a photographic history of each family. This is one of the most interesting and informative things that you can imagine. Every summer each family group has a kodak picture made of it and one of these kodak pictures is placed in the Case History of that particular family. A person can look at these pictures and check most accurately the yearly progress of that family. Here is an interesting thing: One of these pictures located a sick child. It was when we were studying these pictures that we noted a dejected appearance on a little girl who was very vivacious when spoken to. It was only when she relaxed in having her picture taken that her run-down appearance was noted. With this clue and others, the child was found to be quite ill and the necessary measures were adopted to restore her to health. Later pictures told quite a different story.

Barium Spring's first Case Worker was Miss Frances Steele. She came to us from Georgia where she had done similar work for the Red Cross. She served seven years, with the exception of one year, at which time she was in New York taking a special course in this particular work. While she was away, Miss Portia Mengert did her duties. Miss Steele deserves credit for installing a most valuable system of records that we use at Barium and which have been copied by a number of other institutions. She is now the head of the Child Welfare Service in Georgia.

Our present Case Worker came to Barium in 1934. She is Miss Rebekah Carpenter. She had been pastor's assistant in Lexington, and she has served most acceptably.

A Case Worker is a person who has to grow into the job. She becomes acquainted with all the new children whose applications she investigates. As years go by, she eventually becomes acquainted with all the children in the Orphanage and their families. At the present time Miss Carpenter has investigated the applications of half of the children who are at Barium. She knows their relatives better than any person here. She has visited the homes of practically all the other children and of the graduates for the last three years.

As Miss Steele faced the tremendous job of installing a system and breaking in a new job, Miss Carpenter has the tremendous job of adjusting our work to the new laws that have been passed during the past year.

For a number of years North Carolina has had a small Mother's Aid appropriation. It was not nearly enough to take care of all of the families that might have been served with a Mother's Aid grant.

But this year, commencing July 1, 1937, the State, together with the Federal Government, is launching a program that should care for every family that has broken down from financial reasons alone. No child with a good mother should have to come to the Orphanage.

Maybe this seems like lightening the work of the Case Worker, but such is not the case. Very few of the pastors or congregations have made any sort of a study of the changed situation in our State, and applications that shower in on us are for "fatherless children". Many times their mother is able to keep them, with a little financial help. It takes quite a person to convince the interested people that the best way to care for these families is not by sending the children to the Orphanage. That is one of the big jobs that Miss Carpenter has right now.

We older heads remember most vividly the struggle that our secondary schools had when the State really commenced to do a job in secondary education. Our State was pretty thoroughly dotted with good schools like Westminster, Grove and others that we might mention; but when the State put good high schools where these schools were, there was no longer the necessity for the church to carry on this secondary education. The Church had shown the way, and the State had consolidated.

Now, the situation in regard to part of the program of child relief is similar to that. The Orphanages have taken care of fatherless children and experimented with the Mother's Aid program. Nearly all of the Orphanages have done some of this work. The State, following the example of these Orphanages, put on an experiment and found it workable, and now that is consolidated in a real program which from this time forward should take care of all Mothers' Aid families. The Orphanages can relinquish this part of their load and proceed to take care of that multitude of other children who can not be taken care of in this way. It is still showing the way. Maybe some day the State can take another portion of the load, but only after the Church and Fraternal organizations have shown the way.

What children will they take? We wish you could come to Barium and spend the day with our Case Worker and have her read the results of her investigations of hundreds of families, where the mother is dead, the father helpless and the children neglected. Nowhere does there seem any way to take care of those children. Somehow the Church is not yet quite so sympathetic over helping a bereaved father as they are in helping a bereaved mother; and so often that father needs help even more than the mother.

Strange as it may seem, and unflattering to the men—sometimes the greatest loss when a man dies is his pay-check. The Government stands ready to substitute for him in that particular.

It doesn't seem possible, with money, to substitute for that mother forever, and if there is not a good grandmother, an aunt, or somebody available, those children are in the worst plight of all. It is these children that the Orphanage is attempting to serve and it is the Case Worker's business to investigate these applications and to interpret this situation to the people making applications. To explain (if she can) why we should not take this "beautiful young widow's" two or three when the whole Church is so sympathetic and why we should take the children from this poor helpless bewildered father that does not know how to do anything for his helpless brood. How would you like that job? Well, a mighty little woman is doing the job, and she stays cheerful about it because she can see possibly better than any one else, the actual work that the Orphanage is doing. She remembers, more than any other person on the Orphanage staff, the situation when the children were in their deepest need, and she followed them right on through until she sees those same children step out into the world ready to do their part without handicap and with their chins up.

Maybe that's why the children feel a little differently toward the Case Worker than toward anyone elese. They look on her as a member of their family, and they rely on her to do things for them and to interpret things for them as long as they stay at Barium.

The best known person at Barium among the Auxiliaries, Sunday Schools and the other organizations of the Church is Ernest Milton. The best known person among the Clothing Folks and those who send money is Miss Lulie Andrews, the bookkeeper and clothing secretary—the person who signs those receipts. The best person to people that have something to sell is J. H. Lowrance, the assistant superintendent and the purchasing agent. The best known person among the various teams that meet Barium teams are the coaches. But, the person whom visiting relatives always ask for is Miss Carpenter. All these other folks might come and go without seeing her but relatives, never.

When Home-Coming Day comes around and the old-timers come back, their day is not complete without a re-union with the Case Worker. Her work covers the admission of children, it affects their lives here, and it is their contact with the Orphanage after they leave.

For 25 years we got along without a Case Worker. Then we found out that, by adding this one person to the staff, the effectiveness of the Orphanage work was practically doubled. If you don't believe it, write and get one of those pamphlets that we referred to in such a complimentary way in the first part of this article. We still have a few on hand.

REV. W. C. BROWN

to the people of Little Joe's Church. It further means that one of Christ's greatest and most zealous advocates is terminating his active ministry. However, we know that wherever he may be and whenever the opportunity presents itself he will continue to uphold his Master and will do his utmost to lead others into the happy Christain life.

"Mute testimony to the popularity of the retiring minister is revealed through the limited number of pastorates he has held. As a young man immediately out of the Seminary he began his work on July 1, 1896, and had a fundamental part in the growth of the Concord Iredell, Front Street and New Salem Churches in Concord Presbytery for the ten years and ten months in which he served in that field before accepting a call to a group of churches in and around Raeford, in Fayetteville Presbytery.

"For seventeen years and seven months he labored in the latter community. He ministered to the spiritual needs of the congregations of Raeford, Bethel and Montpelier Churches for seven years. The next two years were spent in serving Raeford and Bethel Churches, and the last eight years and seven months in Raeford were devoted to the Raeford Church alone, during which time the same marked progress that characterized other pastorial relationships was continued.

"In December, 1924, he started his third pastorate at Little Joe's Church—a congregation whose membership is largely made up of the Orphanage children.

"Having been here for slightly more than twelve and a half years, he is therefore the only pastor whom many of the children at Barium Springs have ever known. In those years he has been instrumental in leading hundreds of the children, who have come and gone from the Orphanage, to know Christ. It is not believed that a single graduate of the Orphanage family has ever finished at Barium without having accepted Jesus Christ as his or her Saviour.

"He has faithfully ministered to the needs of the entire congregation, deeply sympathizing and comforting those who were in sorrow or in sickness, and doing everything within his power, relying always on the strength of his Lord, to help his people to live the happy Christian life.

"The congregation of Little Joe's Church regrets that he feels the necessity of ending the pastorial relationship here. It regretfully concurs in his request for the dissolution, since this is his expressed wish. It is felt that the absence of his active ministry is a distinct loss to the church, yet we know that no opportunity will ever evade him in continuing the work which has been his passion and to which he has devoted his life—partly in preparation for the ministry, but the major portion which was in active service.

"Wherever Mr. Brown and his family may locate, the best wishes of Little Joe's congregation will be with them all. All of us wish for our retiring pastor many more happy years on this earth—years in which he can justly reflect upon the fact that he has served his Master faithfully and well. We feel that when the final summons comes from on High that he will be greeted by the benediction, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant'."

P. O. H.

A young lawyer tried to give himself the appearance of being exceedingly busy. During his absence from the office he always left a neat card on the door marked, "Will be back in an hour."

On his return one day he found that a rival had inscribed underneath, "What for?"

P. O. H.

Hubby—The bank has returned that check.

Bride—Isn't it splendid? What can we buy with it this time?

P. O. H.

"Say can't you have any fun in this hospital?"

"No, only the surgeons are allowed to cut up."

P. O. H.

He—Here's an article in this paper on how to avoid war.

She—What does it say—stay single?

S. S. Meals

The cost of serving meals to the children at Barium and several thousand visitors last year was 8.5 cents per meal per child. However, using 10 cents a meal as an average, the following meals could have been served by the regular Sunday School Offerings during the past 27 months:

Thanksgiving Final

On December 17, 1936, when $36,381.21 of the 1936 Thanksgiving Offering had been received, the treasurer of the Orphanage estimated that the final total would be $51,300.00. He missed his guess. The final Thanksgiving aggregate was $51,338.58, which was the sum of the Offering when the books on the old year were definitely closed on April 16. Since the latter date additional Thanksgiving gifts have reached the Orphanage, but these will be credited on the 1937-1938 fiscal year for the books cannot be opened once they are in the hands of the auditors.

The 1936 special response at Thanksgiving-time was $6,884.02 more than the $44,454.56 that was contributed in 1935. Albemarle Presbytery led all others in monetary increase, in percentage of increase, and was the only Presbytery to meet the quota that had been apportioned to it by the special Thanksgiving committee from Synod. Kings Mountain lacked less than $200.00 of meeting its quota and was second in percentage of increase, though Mecklenburg Presbytery had the distinction of being second in monetary increase.

Albemarle Presbytery gave $1,492.02 more than in 1935, the other Presbyteries showing the following increases: Mecklenburg, $1,235.18; Kings Mountain, $1,106.77; Orange, $912.99; Winston-Salem, $685.54; Concord, $658.62; Granville, $526.68, and Fayetteville, $305.15.

Wilmington Presbytery failed to show an increase. Its decline was $38.93.

In 1934, 1935 and 1936 special Presbytery committees started functioning and over that period of years the Thanksgiving Offering increased from the $29,280.69 given in 1933 to the $51,338.58 contributed last Thanksgiving—an increase of $22,057.89 since the 1933 Thanksgiving Offering.

The Presbyteries and their increases over that three-year period follow: Mecklenburg, $5,837.55; Concord, $4,749.82; Orange, $3,442.35; Albemarle, $1,988.62; Kings Mountain, $1,869.05; Fayetteville, $1,633.65; Granville, $1,458.67; Winston-Salem, $704.34, and Wilmington, $373.84.

Thanksgiving contributions for the last two years are as follows:

Presbytery	1935 Final	1936 Final
Albemarle	$ 2,171.90	$ 3,663.92
Concord	9,661.72	10,320.34
Fayetteville	4,034.73	4,339.88
Granville	3,181.28	3,707.96
Kings Mountain	2,806.06	3,912.88
Mecklenburg	10,685.00	11,920.18
Orange	6,836.29	7,749.28
Wilmington	2,142.31	2,103.38

SUNDAY SCHOOL GIVING PER MEMBERSHIP FOR 1936-1937 YEAR

Below is the per capita giving of Sunday Schools in the Synod which have contributed regular or special gifts to the Orphanage, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THANKSGIVING OFFERINGS, during 1985-1936 and 1936-1937. The first arrangement is within the Presbyteries and the tabulation at the bottom is a numerical arrangement of the leading Sunday Schools which averaged as much as 50 cents per member. Sunday School memberships recorded in the General Assembly Minutes were used; when none was given, church memberships were used. Sunday Schools of Anderson in Albemarle Presbytery, Verona in Fayetteville Presbytery and Community in Mecklenburg Presbytery also aided, but memberships were not known. If your Sunday School is not included it was because offerings-per-month, fifth Sunday responses or special gifts were not sent to Barium.

The income at the Orphanage for June, 1937, was $297.26 less than that for June a year ago, but Synod's gain in the first two months enables the announcement to be made that the total giving of $6,354.43 to date is $153-.97 ahead of that in the corresponding period of 1936-1937. This gain is not a very large one, but it is on the "up" side, nevertheless.

During the month of June, the giving of King's Mountain Presbytery made it possible for it to exchange places with Mecklenburg. Granville Presbytery jumped from ninth to seventh position, which lowered Fayetteville and Wilmington to eighth and ninth, respectively.

The standing of the Presbyteries a year ago and today is as follows:

P. O. H.

Boy—Daddy, I missed a question at school today.

Father—What was it?

Boy—Well, you see, we had visitors. The teacher asked me to give Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and I told her he never lived at Gettysburg.

P. O. H.

Visitor—Did you serve me this cherry pie because today happens to be Washington's birthday?

Waiter—That's right, sir.

Visitor—Well, get me his hatchet so I can cut it.

P. O. H.

Pat—Why don't they hang men with wooden legs in England?

Pat—Because a rope is usually preferred.
